Overview

An essential part of the executive team of operational directors and managers, Kathy Gailes is Director of Human Resources for Bernkopf Goodman LLP. She collaborates with all firm leadership to align the firm's human resource programs with its business strategies.

Kathy directs the firm's professional staff recruitment, skills development, and retention programs for facilities, operations, and legal services departments. She works with the firm's professional staff to facilitate their work across all firm levels throughout their professional careers. Kathy also oversees the benefits programs.

Along with her depth of experience as a human resource generalist, Kathy has unique business operations knowledge after successfully creating and managing a human resource consulting firm in 2016.
