Litigation

Our Litigation Department has substantial expertise in state and federal trial and appellate courts, administrative hearings, and arbitration and mediation proceedings both in Massachusetts and nationally.

Our solid expertise in substantive areas of the law, including real estate, corporate, business, environmental, construction, and trusts and estates, provides a solid foundation that is combined with litigation skills and trial advocacy to deliver precise, effective counsel in helping clients achieve their goals when embroiled in litigation.

Our practice is wide ranging, encompassing real estate title and brokerage disputes, mortgage-related litigation, land use, zoning, bankruptcy, and white collar criminal defense, in addition to our commercial and real estate-related practice.

Our broad array of clients includes banks and other lending entities, loan servicers, insurance and surety companies, business owners, real estate developers, contractors, subcontractors and individuals.

We are well-known for representing title insurance companies, lenders and individuals in a vast array of litigation matters, such as quiet title, deed and mortgage reformation, Ibanez-related litigation, equitable subrogation and adverse possession. In the lender liability realm, we defend lenders against TILA, RESPA, FDCPA, FCRA, fraud and other predatory lending claims.

We have deep and longstanding experience in a variety of business and commercial disputes.
